Reed W. Morgan joins Mental Health Center of Denver Board of Directors

Denver, Colorado October 6, 2010. The Mental Health Center of Denver (MHCD) announces the appointment of Reed W. Morgan to its Board of Directors.

Morgan, an attorney with Sherman & Howard, LLC in Denver, brings expertise in general commercial litigation. He is licensed to practice law in Colorado and California and has spent considerable time in public defenders offices in San Diego and New Orleans.

“Working in public defender offices quickly opens your eyes to the toll that untreated mental health problems take on individuals, families, and society. MHCD engages in innovative programs—such as its involvement in the Court to Community program—that address these concerns by focusing on strengths and recovery,” says Morgan on joining the board.

Morgan is a graduate of Harvard Law School and attended the University of Colorado where he earned a Bachelor of Arts degree in Economics graduating summa cum laude, with distinction. He assists with fundraising as a member of the Mile High United Way Emerging Leaders Council and enjoys playing hockey and tennis in his off hours as well as keeping up on politics and current events.

The Mental Health Center of Denver is a private, 501(3) non-profit organization and the designated mental health provider for the City and County of Denver. One third of The Mental Health Center of Denver’s board members are mayoral appointees. The remaining membership is self-appointed.

The Mental Health Center of Denver (MHCD) provides outcomes-based mental health services to the City and County of Denver. A private, non-profit organization, its mission is enriching lives and minds by focusing on strengths and recovery. With a recovery rate of over 70%, MHCD is recognized as the national center of excellence in mental healthcare because of its many innovative approaches to treatment, measuring mental health recovery outcomes and its focus on continuous quality improvement.

MHCD is Denver’s source of comprehensive and accessible mental health and substance abuse treatment for adults in Denver, as well as the leading resource of treatment for families and children. MHCD provides services in 36 community settings and has therapists in Denver public schools. The Mental Health Center of Denver currently serves 15,200 adults, children, and families.
